

Reward: your own street

• SARAH Comiskey wants to recognise the honest person.

IT'S 2pm and a young woman leaves a handbag at McDonalds, Loganlea.

At 3pm woman arrives at place of employment to discover she is without her handbag.

In her moment of desperation, woman rings McDonalds, Loganlea, in an attempt to locate handbag and much to her surprise it had been handed in with its contents intact including a substantial sum of money and personal computer diary.

Sarah Comiskey, of Comiskey Corporation wants to know who the honest person was who found her handbag and thank them in an honourable way.

Northside resident, Mrs Comiskey would like to name a street after the honest person in her company's latest residential and commercial development at Meadowbrook.

She said her initial reaction was relief but at the same time disbelief.

"As much as I hate to say it, my thoughts were that I was in Logan and no-one would hand in my handbag, but they did," she said.

"I am now more than confident that our business has made the right move to develop and invest in this city."

Mrs Comiskey said she was lead to believe the person was a female student from Loganlea High School.

Comiskey Corporation is developing the area located near Griffith University, Logan.

It is planned that Meadowbrooks Lake will have 200 houses as well as commercial development with a boulevard and street cafes.

If you were the honest person contact the "Logan City Herald" on 3804 3777.
